Wanju-gun Northern region

Bibong, Unju, Hwasan, Gyeongcheon

Daedunsan Mountain, beautiful in all four seasons, is the pride and the treasure of Wanju. Exposed granites make attractive rocks and stones here and there, and layers of dense forest made the mountain the Diamond Mountain of Honam since ancient times. Geumgang Suspension Bridge, especially near the peak, is a must-see attraction. You will come to Yaksujeong Pavilion when you cross Geumgang Suspension Bridge. Walk across Samseon Judatari Bridge to go to Wanggywanbawi Rock. All things you see here, including Nakjodae Overlook, Taegosa Temple, Geumgang Falls, Dongsimbawi Rock, Geumgang Valley, Samseon Mineral Spring, etc., offer magnificent views.

Wibongsan Temple, Wibong Falls, and Wibongsanseong Fortress

Wibongsanseong Fortress is a large-sized fortress that is 8.5km in circumference built in 1675 (First year of King Sukjong of Joseon). It was built to use as a shelter for Gyeongjeogwon Shrine, the portrait of King Taejo, and the wooden tablet that symbolized his ancestors in case of emergency. It was actually used to protect the portrait and the wooden tablet at the time of Donghak Peasant Revolution. Wibongsan got its name from the legend that says the temple was built on the site where three phoebes were flying onto. On the roof ridge of the famously magnificent Wibongsanseong Hall are time-honored blue tiles. Wibong Falls, known as one of the eight views of Wansan, is a two-layered fall of 60 meters. The falling waters are a grand view.
